

COMODULE is provider of Internet of Things solutions for vehicle manufacturers and fleet owners.

We empower mobility of tomorrow by providing tools for digitization. We're working with the leading companies in the light vehicle industry who are delivering our solution to 45 countries globally.

Hiring: Project Manager

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Manage the projects from initial technical implementation to mass production
- Understand customer problems and technical blockers, convert those to tasks for engineers
- Define product strategy with the team and help carry out product improvements and figure out the team's vision and goals
- Leading a project based team of HW, FW and SW engineers
- Providing support to customers regarding module functionality, deployment process and troubleshooting. Might include visits for on-site support
- Understand how the product works so you can communicate our customers the COMODULE system and how it can help them

WHAT TO WE EXPECT FROM YOU

- Very good communication skills
- Customer first!
- Get shit done attitude and deliver results
- Experience with software development related projects
- Project management skills, as in project leadership, risk management, paying attention to details, task and quality management
- Believe that technology changes the World

OUR OFFER

- Flat hierarchy & opportunity for personal development alongside company's rapid growth
- Be part of the digital revolution of mobility & lead the future of transportation
- Travel the world & take part of the most innovative conferences
- Office in Tallinn old town
- Multicultural team with diverse background driven by success
- Competitive salary & bonuses for your efforts
- Fun team events & lots of ping-pong
- Loads of weird humour