
HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY

INTRODUCTION

CEWOOD has successfully taken over and continues developing wood wool (fibrolith) production traditions dating back more than 50 years in Latvia. We are proud to be a 100% Latvian company and one of the most sought-after employers in Alūksne region, providing jobs for more than 100 people.

CEWOOD strives to treat everyone equally and with respect. All CEWOOD employees, board members and owners of CEWOOD business take into account and support the protection of human rights, and this also applies to the conduct of our business partners, as well as suppliers and external service providers, as defined by the International Bill of Human Rights and the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. When implementing the proper management of business aspects related to human rights, CEWOOD takes into account the eight fundamental conventions of the International Labour Organization, which cover topics considered as fundamental principles and fundamental rights at work: freedom of association and the right to collective bargaining, the elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labour, child labour prohibition, as well as prevention and elimination of discrimination in relation to employment and profession. CEWOOD assesses and manages risks in accordance with the regulations on a regular basis.

In cases where national legislation and international human rights standards differ, the highest of the standards must be followed, and if they conflict, CEWOOD (or a supplier or a business partner thereof) undertakes to respect internationally recognized human rights as much as possible.

There is no doubt that the fundamental strength of CEWOOD is its employees, therefore we rely on each of them to adhere to CEWOOD value principles, because only together can we ensure high quality of goods and services and earn the trust of customers, cooperation partners and other interested parties.

CEWOOD believes it is essential to treat all parties involved in our activities with respect, including customers, suppliers, subcontractors, as well as state institutions and local government. We must not forget to show mutual respect amongst employees.

The human rights are comprehensive human rights to live a dignified life without fear, without deprivation and to be free to express one's personal views. These rights apply equally to all persons regardless of their nationality, place of residence, sex, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, language, or any other status.

We stand against violations of human rights in our economic activities; the employees have a right to a safe and healthy workplace, working hours and wages set by the law, where the determined wage must meet the cost of living. CEWOOD expects the same from all parties involved, including supply chains and cooperation partners. We will take seriously any reports of possible human rights violations in our company, as well as in the business activities of our cooperation partners.

The human rights policy is governed by CEWOOD's Collective Labour Agreement, Rules of Procedure and Occupational Safety Rules.

1. PREVENTION OF DISCRIMINATION. Employees are at the heart of CEWOOD success, and our company complies with all applicable international and national employment laws to ensure fair, safe and humane working conditions.

CEWOOD aims to provide equal opportunities to its employees and prevent discrimination of employees based on such characteristics as race, religious beliefs, age, nationality, gender, sexual orientation, political opinions, membership in trade unions, marital status or disability and other personal characteristics. CEWOOD is against discrimination in the workplace.

CEWOOD believes the diversity of employees is a great asset, and employees with their unique professional and life experiences make a significant contribution to CEWOOD's growth and success.

CEWOOD hires and promotes employees solely based on their professional qualifications and experience in the performance of the relevant work duties, and we do not allow our decision to be influenced by the above-mentioned personal features. We terminate employment strictly in line with the applicable legislation in the field of employment, and not based on subjective, unjustified considerations.

2. PREVENTION OF HARASSMENT AND ABUSE. CEWOOD never supports abusive attitudes and behaviour in the workplace. Abusive attitudes and behaviour are any unwanted, insulting, or discriminatory conduct that creates a hostile, degrading work environment. Examples of abusive attitudes and behaviour include sexual harassment, bullying, offensive comments or jokes, and threats of any kind. Likewise, deliberate spreading of rumours, slander and social isolation in the workplace are not allowed.

3. PREVENTION OF ALL FORCED OR COMPULSORY LABOR. CEWOOD stands against violations of human rights in economic activity, employees have a right to a safe and healthy workplace, working hours and wages set by the law, where the set wage must meet the cost of living.
