Synopsis

My teaching and senior leadership experience is currently based in Tongji University, Shanghai. There I hold the position of High-End Foreign Expert, Full Professor of Design Theory, Practice and Strategy, and Director of the Experience Design Research Lab in the College of Design and Innovation. In this role, I have introduced innovative courses that advance the interdisciplinary field of design, developed a new doctoral program, initiated research projects with community impact, and organized workshops and international conferences that promote new ideas about design theory and practice. I have served seven years as a Board Member of the Contemporary Art Society of the Cleveland Museum of Art, and I have served as a Board Member of DESMA, the EU-funded Initial Training Network in Design Management. Before this I was a full-time ranked Assistant Professor at the Cleveland Institute of Art and have been conferred 5 other Visiting Professorships at overseas universities. I have published a sole authored book entitled "Toward a Poetics of Fibre Art and Design: Acoustic and Aesthetic Qualities of Hand-tufted Materials in Interior Spatial Design," published four papers in international peer reviewed journals, and 10 other publications in international conference proceedings. I am an editor of the book "Experience and Principles of Design" that is planned to be published in 2025. Currently, I am an Editorial Board Member of Design Studies, the Interdisciplinary Journal of Design Research, published by Elsevier.

I hold a PhD in Design and advanced degrees in Design Research, in History of Art, and in Art and Craft. I have won 18 competitive Research grants which have generated funding over 200,000 SEK in Europe and 50,000 USD in the United States. Among other awards, in 2001 I won a prestigious Swedish Cultural Award for valuable achievements for Swedish cultural life. I have been invited to be the keynote speaker at international conferences and I have delivered more than dozen invited presentations at conferences around the world, led 11 international workshops/seminars, and been invited to give lectures in a variety of universities. Recently, I organized an international by-invitation-only working conference "Exp'19 - Experience and Principles of Design" that was sponsored by my Experience Design Research Lab at the College of Design and Innovation. I have had 14 solo exhibitions of my work in galleries around the world and been included in 22 group exhibitions. My art work is in collections in the Swedish National Public Art Council and Art Board of Göteborg City, among others. I have created commissioned works for the Shipping Company OY (Saaremaa Laevakompanii) in Estonia, and the University of Gothenburg in Sweden (2007).

Faculty Development Seminars

Faculty Seminar I, Spring 2009

Organized and delivered a 10-session seminar for the development of faculty from all of the departments and environments of the Cleveland Institute of Art. The goal was to advance thinking about important issues in research and educational practice at the Institute, with particular focus on the liberal arts and their engagement with studio experience. Topics included the nature of practice-based research, the pluralism of theories in art and design, interdisciplinary issues and opportunities across disciplines, and the principles and ethical values that guide teaching and learning in the environment of an institute of art and design.

Faculty Seminar II, Spring 2010

Organized and delivered a 10-session continuation of the earlier seminar. Advanced discussion of strategies for research and writing in art and design. Writing for conferences, journals, and other venues. The purpose of this faculty seminar was to share ideas, experiences, and knowledge across the disciplines. Participating in communities of discourse.
