WHAT SCARES YOU THE MOST?
HEIGHTS? SPIDERS? DARKNESS?
OR BEING FORCED TO LIVE WITHOUT THE INTERNET?

In AHHA's new thrilling exhibition, a bunch of creepy chambers awaits you, each one hiding a source for a common phobia.

The exhibition was created in cooperation with professional psychologists from Psühobuss and explains why we sometimes fear something that isn't really dangerous.

There is no age limit and the exhibition is so funny that it's scary. It's totally immersive and affects all of our senses. And perhaps facing your fear will help you defeat it?

EXHIBITS

A woman with long dark hair, wearing a floral top, is looking intently at an exhibit in a museum. The scene is dimly lit with a strong green light source, creating a dramatic and somewhat spooky atmosphere. In the background, another person is visible, also looking at an exhibit. The overall setting appears to be a museum or gallery with various displays.

The exhibition includes:

- Earthquake simulator
- Depths and heights
- Narrow and dark hallways
- Rooms full on spiders and insects
- Predictable fire and electricity exhibits
- A spooky doctor's office

Atephobia - fear of ruins.

A room where everything vibrates like when an earthquake occurs.

Acrophobia and altophobia - fear of heights,
batophobia - fear of tall buildings and objects, aviatophobia - fear of flying.

A construction consisting of two containers in which the visitor can walk over an apparent depth.

Herpetophobia - fear of reptiles, ophidiophobia - fear of snakes, arachnophobia -
fear of spiders, entomophobia - fear of insects, musophobia - fear of rats and mice.

Spiders, worms and other creatures gathered in one room.

Electrophobia - fear of electricity.

A room with a seemingly endless amount of electrical equipment and wires. Beware of the occasional arc-light!

Pyrophobia - fear of fire, thermophobia - fear of heat.

A fake fireplace with a real fire that erupts from the chimney time to time.

Phonophobia - fear of loud sounds, keraunophobia - fear of thunder.

Various sound clips supported by strobe light and other special effects.

Claustrophobia - fear of confined spaces,
stenophobia - fear of narrow places and objects,
lygophobia, myctophobia, scotophobia, nyctophobia
- fear of the dark (or the night).

An elongated room that is very dim and shrinking.
Different textures on the walls.

FoMo - fear of missing out.

Scene from a car crash where a family tells a story about their current emotions and the need to be constantly informed about what is happening on social media. The punch-line is the voice of a child, who is not at all aware of what is happening on Instagram, and is the only one who actually pays attention to the seriousness of the situation.

Olfactophobia, osfresiophobia or osmophobia - fear of odours.

When activated, the exhibit emits various rather unpleasant odours.

Haphephobia - fear of touch, stenophobia - fear of narrow places and objects. You'll never know what to expect when you put your hand inside the exhibit.

Augmented reality. A version of the hand in a box exhibit, where you can see your hand on the monitor, but an animation is included.

Spiders, worms etc are added to the picture and with bugs gadgetry move in sync with animations.

Aquaphobia - fear of water:

A room designed like a bridge deck.
Moves up and down one axis.

Which dance performance would an omphalophobe never go to?

00:46

A belly dance

B ballet

C step dance

D hip-hop

Multiple choice questionnaire consisting of 50 phobia-related questions, where the visitors are given the opportunity to answer 15 questions at a time. When the quiz is finished, the list of top performers is displayed.

iatrophobia - fear of doctors and medical personnel, necrophobia - fear of death and dead things.

A creepy window peek into a small room filled with torn limbs, syringes and other similar props.

TV wall.

All the mentioned rooms have cameras and the pictures are shown on this wall, so that, for example, parents can monitor their children panicking in other rooms.
